[Intro]
G  Gmaj7  C    Am  D7  G

[Verse]
G                Gmaj7
City girls just seem to find
    C out early,
Am
how to open doors with just a D7
smile.
  G                Gmaj7
A rich old man and she won't
        C
have to worry;
       Am              C
she'll dress up all in lace and G go in style.
G                Gmaj7
Late at night a big old house
     C gets lonely;
        Am
I guess every form of refuge
        D7
has its price.
       G
And it breaks her heart to Gmaj7             C
think her love is only
      Am            C
Given to a man with hands as G     C  D
cold as ice.
```

```
       G
So she tells him she must go Gmaj7          C
out for the evening
   Am
To comfort an old friend who's D7
feeling down.
    G                    Gmaj7
But he knows where she's goin'
         C
as she's leavin';
      Am             C
She's headed for the cheatin' G side of town.

[Chorus]
          G    C/D
You can't hi - ide your lyin'
G     C  G           Em    Bm
eyes,       and your smi - ile
              Am      D
 is a thin disguise.
             G    F/G
I thought by no - ow you'd
   C    A7        Am
reali - ize there ain't no
       D               G
way to hide your lying eyes.

[Interlude]
(G) Gmaj7  C    Am  D7  G

[Verse]
       G             Gmaj7
On the other side of town a boy
    C is waiting Am
with fiery eyes and dreams no D7
one could steal
    G
She drives on through the Gmaj7        C
night, anticipating
       Am                 C
Cos he makes her feel the way
            G      C  D
she used to feel

    G             Gmaj7
She rushes to his arms, they
       C fall together
    Am
She whispers that it's only D7
for a while
    G
She swears that soon she'll Gmaj7          C
 be coming back forever
    Am             C
She pulls away and leaves him
       G
with a smile

[Chorus]
          G    C/D
You can't hi - ide your lyin'
G     C  G           Em    Bm
eyes,       and your smi-i-ile
              Am      D
 is a thin disguise.
             G    F/G
I thought by no - ow you'd
   C    A7        Am
reali - ize there ain't no
       D               G
way to hide your lying
eyes.

[Interlude]
(G) Gmaj7  C    Am  D7  G

[Verse]
```

```
G               Gmaj7
She gets up and pours herself a
 C strong one
    Am
And stares out at the stars up
       D7
in the sky.
 G                  Gmaj7
Another night, it's gonna be a C long one;
    Am                  C
She draws the shade and hangs
            G     C  D
her head to cry.

    G              Gmaj7
She wonders how it ever got
     C
this crazy
    Am
She thinks about a boy she knew D7
 in school
    G                Gmaj7
Did she get tired or did she
         C
just get lazy
      Am               C
She's so far gone, she feels G
just like a fool

G              Gmaj7
My, oh my, you sure know how to
   C
 arrange things;
    Am
You set it up so well, so D7
carefully.
         G Ain't it funny how your new Gmaj7           C
life didn't change things;
       Am                 C
You're still the same old girl
            G
you used to be.

[Chorus]
          G    C/D
You can't hi - ide your lyin'
G     C  G           Em    Bm
eyes,       and your smi - ile
              Am      D
 is a thin disguise.
             G    F/G
I thought by no - ow you'd
   C    A7        Am
reali - ize there ain't no
       D               G
way to hide your lying
eyes.
Gmaj7       Am              D
      There ain't no way to G hide your lyin' eyes
Gmaj7  Am               D
       Honey, you can't G hide your lyin' eyes.

[Outro]
(G) Gmaj7  Am  D   G
